and bidding was slow, starting at $100 and proceeding upwards by small gradations until the sum of $325 was offered. On account of the height of the building and the fact that it would have to be removed in such a short time, many were timid about undertaking the job, and those who did bid were unwilling to take much of a chance on it. The opinion seemed to be that seven or eight hundred dollars was a conservative estimate of the amount it would cost to get the building down and off the premises.

The purchaser will be required to us week in conjunction with the committee of the Business Men's association, was announced by President Frank P. Fenton Wednesday merning. Mayor Daniel P.
